Required Textbook: McMahan, et al., eds. Literature and the Writing Process. 10th Edition. 2014.

Course Description: Students will learn how to develop interpretations of literature through reading short fiction, poetry, drama, and essays. They will be introduced to literary terminology and to standard critical approaches. They will also learn how to use source materials in order to clearly express their views about literature in several argumentative essays, which includes at least one research essay. Prerequisite: ENG 101 with a grade of "C" or better.* This is an "L" course.

Blackboard: This course is an online course and thus, students will need consistent online capabilities in order to complete the coursework. As a system, Blackboard requires at least high-speed internet access (this access can be gained at various coffee shops or any place of business that offers free WiFi Internet Access). Blackboard offers a network on which I will post the syllabus, quizzes, assignments, lectures, and discussion questions – all of which students will need to consistently access in order to complete. Additionally, students will need to use the Blackboard tools, messaging, and posting capabilities in order to submit assignments, etc. As a result, Blackboard is the ONLY way to submit assignments and the main source for contacting me during the course. Use My Commnet in order to access to Blackboard. Students who experience technical difficulties need to contact the MxCC or Blackboard Helpdesks. Students can reach the Blackboard Helpdesk: 866.940.1928 or 860-343-5756.

Online Orientation Sessions are offered, the following link will present the schedule for Spring 2014:

Course Requirements:

Student E-Mail and Blackboard Mail: Students in this course are required to use Blackboard Mail as their primary means of contact with the instructor. Blackboard Mail is the best way to contact me with questions or to schedule conferences. If you are unable to contact me via Blackboard, reserve use of MxCC e-mail as a back-up or emergency means for contact. I try to be as vigilant as possible in checking my e-mail and I do check it at least once a day, so I ask students to give me a 24-hour window for response. If I have not responded in 24 hours, please resend your request/e-mail. As a result, I ask that students also check their e-mails as I may send reminders or important messages. However, important messages will occasionally be sent to your Student E-mail (or your MxCC E-mail) address. Students should check that e-mail account regularly or they may forward it to an e-mail address that they do check regularly. See the link at start of the syllabus for information. Additionally, papers or assignments may not be e-mailed for credit, please post your papers and assignments to the appropriate place in Blackboard.

Textbook and Materials: It is required that students purchase a textbook to complete the course. Students should also have regular access to Blackboard in order to download the week's lecture notes, assignments, weekly quizzes, etc.

Modules - Lecture Notes: Each week I will post lecture notes to accompany the reading assignment (I will usually have these up and ready for you every Sunday evening). Within each week's notes, I will provide topic information, reading schedule, reading information, things to think about. Within these notes, I will also post weekly discussion questions and assignments within. It is imperative for students to read each week's notes carefully in order to stay on top of deadlines and demands throughout the course.

Discussion Posts: Online discussion is a very important tool for exploring Literature. Through Blackboard, each student will post a discussion response to questions posed in lecture notes. Students will make TWO posts to the discussion forum each week. First, students are required to choose one of those discussion questions and post an initial response (by THURSDAY of that week). Later on in the week, students will post their second response to another student's discussion post for another/different question (this will be due by each SUNDAY of that week). These posts are due by 11:59pm on the date posted within the course schedule. Here are some guidelines for posting discussion responses:

- Discussion posts need to be elaborate. No post should ever be one or two sentences; they should be several paragraphs at the very least.
- Discussion posts should be clear, thesis driven, and coherent; every post should be adequately revised before publication on the discussion thread.

- All posts should reference the textbook or readings to which they refer. Quoting and providing page numbers is very helpful in terms of illustrating points. Do remember that if you quote, paraphrase or reference another source, it is imperative to explain the connection and reason(s) for which the reference is being made. This should be done in the MLA documentation style. (Additionally, to avoid plagiarism, please be sure to give credit to all authors and sources used – this will be further addressed later on.)
- Discussion posts and responses should be respectful. Respect is tremendously important in order for successful discussion to ensue. All insults, inappropriate remarks, etc. will be dealt with publicly and on an individual basis. As we are all adults, I hope that this will not be an issue.
- There are ways to politely and professionally disagree with another or present an opposing issue – please remember in these instances to be respectful and use tact. Should anyone need to discuss this further, please communicate with me individually.
- Please remember that I will be involved in the discussion thread as well; additionally, your discussion posts can/will be read by the entire class. With this in mind, please be sure to make your discussion posts relevant and thoughtful.

Deadlines for discussion posts are clearly outlined in the course schedule and will be clearly indicated within the lecture notes for each week. Each week's discussion will be given its own thread or forum (generally the title of the topic listed on the course schedule). Each discussion thread or forum will be locked after the deadline. Any late postings (after the deadline and before it gets locked) will be given half credit. No postings will be accepted after a thread is locked. Please complete all discussions by the deadlines stated in the lecture notes and on the course schedule listed for the week. Since this course is online, your posts and participation in discussion are a considerable part of your grade. Each discussion post will be graded on:

- How the post addresses the question (clarity, thesis, support, etc.)
- How the post integrates the readings within the response to the question
- The quality and care put into the post (evidence of revision, citations, etc.)

In the event that a post does not meet requirements, students will be asked to revise it. This request will be made either publicly or privately depending upon the revision that needs to be made. It is necessary for students to fulfill such requests because failure to do so will result in a lowering of the discussion grade.

Quizzes: Each week there will be a reading quiz posted on Blackboard. These quizzes will be unlocked on Sunday at 12:00am (when the lecture notes are posted) and will be available until 11:59pm on Wednesday of each week (timeframes may alter and if they do, it will be appropriately stated within the lecture notes). At the deadline, the quiz will be locked and graded; thus, no student may access that quiz. No quiz may be completed or made up after it is locked. Sometimes, writing assignments will be given as quizzes – such instances will be detailed in the lecture notes for that week and are indicated on the course schedule. Quizzes will be averaged together at the end of the semester and factored into your final grade.

Exams: There will be a midterm and a final exam posted on Blackboard. These exams will be open-book with mixed questions (multiple choice, true/false, fill-in-the-blank, matching, and essay questions) and they will assess student knowledge on completed coursework. Exams are posted on the course schedule and will work in a similar fashion to the quizzes. Information on the exams will appear in the lecture notes as they near.

Projects: There will be three major projects, or essays, assigned throughout this course: a literary analysis essay, a critical analysis essay with research, and a comparison/contrast essay. All projects will be posted on Blackboard with explicit guidelines and deadlines. Each project will also involve a Project Proposal in which students will submit their choice of literature, their thesis statement, textual support and analysis, and other project specific information. Project proposals will help provide students with instructor feedback on how to best complete their projects and the average of project proposal grades will serve as a project grade itself (see Grading Scale below).

Deadlines: All deadlines are posted within the course schedule and in the announcements section of Blackboard. Unless special arrangements have been made with me, penalties will be applied to late papers and papers will not be accepted one week from the original due date.

Formatting Papers: All essays, or projects, need to be posted to Blackboard by the stated deadlines. Basic requirements for assignments are as follows:

- All essays for this course must be typed and generated with a word processing program. This means that students need to save all work on a hard drive or flash drive (having this work saved will save all students extra, unnecessary work).
- Each project must be submitted with your name, class/course number, date, and the instructor's name in the upper, left-hand corner of the first page.
- Page numbers and the student's last name will appear within the upper, right-hand corner of all pages but the first.
- All papers must be double spaced.
- All papers need to follow MLA Guidelines
- Papers may not be e-mailed outside of Blackboard. It is a student's responsibility to manage his/her time and post all assignments by the stated deadlines.

Office Hours and Conferences: If you need to discuss your writing or a course related subject, you are welcome to schedule an appointment with me. You may schedule appointments in person or via e-mail; however, if you e-mail a request for an appointment, please provide adequate notice (24-48 hours) so that I may respond to your request. Throughout the semester, I will be conferencing with you about your work and progress, both formally and informally.

Academic Support

- Tutoring is available at the Learning Center and the Reading/Writing Lab in Chapman Hall. If you visit a tutor, please bring the assignment with you. Attach the drafts and the work that you did with the tutor to the back of your assignments when they are due in class.
- Computers can be located in Wheaton Hall and Chapman Hall.
- Blackboard Learn will contain electronic copies of the syllabus, etc.

Grading Scale: Your final grade will be calculated according to the following percentages (I've also placed the number of points available to show the percentage conversion within the Blackboard Gradebook):

Projects (Major Essays) = 40%

#1 Literary Analysis/Close Reading Project

#2 Critical Analysis/Research Project

#3 Comparison/Contrast Project

#4 Project Proposal Average

Exams = 20%

Discussion Posts 25%

Quizzes = 15%

Final grades will be calculated according to the grading percentages listed above and the final grade of A-F will be determined by the following scale:

A = 93-100

B = 83-86

C = 73-76

A- = 90-92

B- = 80-82

C- = 70-72

F = 0-59

B+ = 87-89

C+ = 77-79

D = 60-69

Withdrawals: A student may withdraw from any course after the add/drop period, until the end of the 11th week of the semester (for the Fall and Spring semesters). This deadline is published in the Academic Calendar and is Tuesday, April 15, 2014. A student must take the responsibility for initiating and completing a withdrawal. It is in the best interest of the student to discuss a withdrawal with his or her academic advisor, and/or the instructor of the course. A student who wishes to withdraw from a course must:

1. Obtain a withdrawal form from the Records Office,
2. Fill in and sign the form,
3. Obtain the signature of the course instructor, and (if applicable) financial aid staff member and/or veterans counselor, and
4. Return the completed form to the Records Office prior to the deadline.

A student who is taking an online course and is unable to come to campus, should contact the course instructor to request a withdrawal electronically, prior to the deadline. A student who wishes to completely withdraw from MxCC must notify the Records Office of that intention. The College prefers the student to come in personally and obtain signatures as described above. However, notification may be made in writing. A withdrawal will be recorded as a “W” on the student’s transcript. Withdrawing from a course makes the student ineligible for Dean’s List recognition in that semester. A student who misses the withdrawal deadline, and who has extenuating circumstances, may choose to file an “Appeal for Late Withdrawal” form with the Dean of Academic Affairs. This form must be signed by the instructor indicating his/her permission for withdrawal before the appeal will be considered. Any student who stops attending a class and fails to complete a withdrawal form will receive a letter grade for that course (A – F).

College-Wide Policies

ADA Accommodation: “Students with physical or learning disabilities who may require accommodations are encouraged to contact the Counseling Office. After disclosing the nature of the disability, students are urged to discuss their needs with individual instructors. This should be done at the beginning of each semester. Instructors, in conjunction with appropriate college officials, will provide assistance and/or accommodations only to those students who have completed this process.” For more information, contact the Disability Support Services (D.S.S) at 860-343-5879.

Academic Honesty: “At Middlesex Community College we expect the highest standards of academic honesty. Academic dishonesty is prohibited in accordance with the Board of Trustees’ Proscribed Conduct Policy in Section 5.2.1 of the Board of Trustees’ Policy Manual. This policy prohibits cheating on examinations, unauthorized collaboration on assignments, unauthorized access to examinations or course materials, plagiarism, and other proscribed activities. Plagiarism is defined as the use of another’s idea(s) or phrase(s) and representing that/those idea(s) as your own, either intentionally or unintentionally.”

 This means you can’t copy someone else’s work – anyone else’s work – and submit it as your own. It also means you can’t let someone else copy your work. Doing either will subject you to penalties on your grade(s) and the possibility of disciplinary action. ***

Religious Accommodation: “If your religious obligations conflict with the course calendar requirements, and if you wish to request an accommodation, you must make your request in writing prior to the date of the assessment or activity you will miss and preferably at the beginning of the semester. When requesting a make-up quiz, test, exam, assignment, or activity, state the reason for your request and the date(s) on which your religious obligation(s) will conflict with the course calendar requirements. Also, if your religious obligation/holiday is unfamiliar to your instructor, you may be asked to provide a calendar which shows the published date(s) of your religious observance(s) or holiday(s).”

Inclement Weather: Since online courses and deadlines allow for students to complete coursework on their own time and at any place, all deadlines will stand despite college closure. For information regarding College closures, see the MxCC website: www.mxcc.commnet.edu or call: (860) 343-5800. See also all major local radio and television stations.
