SOC 210/CRN 1649 860.343.5813 Office: Snow Hall Room 508 Office Hours:

Tu. 12:30- 2:30 & Wed. 12- 1

COURSE DESCRIPTION: An examination of the evolution of contemporary relationships such as dating, cohabitation and marriage. The implications of changes in relationships and their effect on the individual, family and society will be analyzed.

SCOPE OF THE COURSE:

This course will introduce the student to sociological analyses of the family as an intimate, resilient, and dynamic social institution. Students will examine the influences of various social forces on the family, including race and ethnicity, legislation, technology, medicine, and other engines of social change. The course will explore empirical findings and theoretical perspectives pertaining to such aspects of the family as courtship, roles, marriage, and family interaction.

The course will facilitate the development of students' critical thinking skills by situating the modern family in its historical context, examining differences and similarities between the role of family in various cultural and ethnic groups, assessing the impact of changes in the family on children and adults, and by reflecting upon the future of the family and the debate over the ideal type of family structure.

COURSE OBJECTIVES & LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Upon completion of the course, the student will be able to:

- 1. Understand and use sociological theory in studying intra- and inter-family roles and relationships.
- 2. Recognize some of the key historical changes, and their precipitators, which have had significant consequences for the family.
- 3. Identify diverse family forms and family interaction in the U.S.
- 4. Assess the reification of "family values," and the importance of constructive values in resilient families.
- 5. Identify problems and frame research questions relating to families and their experiences.
- 6. Appreciate the process of theory-building and theoretical frameworks used by the social sciences by employing the three major theoretical frameworks in sociology, structural functionalism, conflict theory, and symbolic interactionism, to gain insight into and to engage in critical thinking about the family.

- 7. To understand differences among and commonalities across families and their experience and transitions in roles and responsibilities of family members as they face various life events (e.g. college graduation, marriage, parenthood, retirement, catastrophic illness).
- 8. Understand how changes in the economy, legislation and technology may affect the family.
- 9. Identify and explain gender division of labor in different cultures.
- 10. Analyze family problems of violence and abuse.
- 11. Explore the future of the family.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS:

- 1. Assigned readings must be completed on time, as they will be the bases for class discussion.
- 1. Three exams will be given and must be taken on their assigned dates. No make-ups will be given for unexcused absences.
- 1. Regular participation including class exercises or written reflections.
