Course Description:

Students will develop written texts of varying lengths and styles for different audiences and purposes. They will respond to rhetorical situations, use sources, craft logical arguments, apply language conventions, and formulate effective writing strategies.

Required Texts:

Hacker, Diana. A Writer's Reference, 8th Edition.

Stubbs, Marcia, et al. The Little Brown Reader, 12th Edition.

Structure of Course

Our online course is broken into three units, and each unit will contain three assignments. For each unit, we will follow the same formula. YOU HAVE AN ASSIGNMENT DUE EVERY WEDNESDAY AT 11:59 PM AND EVERY SUNDAY AT 11:59 PM.

- Assignments for the week will be released every Monday morning at 8 AM.
- The first assignment of each unit will be to read a series of articles and write a post to the course discussion board.
- The second assignment of each unit will be to study a PowerPoint lesson and to write a one-page paper that demonstrates mastery of that PowerPoint's content. This is harder than it seems—to write an effective one-page paper you must be concise, focused, and thoughtful.
- The third assignment of each unit will be to write a research driven “Major Paper” (3-4 pages). One page papers may be used to develop these major papers. For that reason, I will return all work promptly over the course of the semester.
- Our course squeezes a 15 week semester into just 5 weeks. That means we're moving at 3 times the pace of a normal semester. Students in a 15 week semester are told that each course they take is a 9 hour per week commitment. That means, in a course moving at 3 times the speed, you should be prepared for a 27 hour per week commitment to this course. I do not advise taking another summer course at the same time as ENG 101. If you are working, I do not recommend working more than 30 hours per week during our 5 week course. 30 hours of work + 30 hours of class is 60 hours of work per week. For most students, 60 hours of work+school is a limit. Beyond that, your performance at work or in school is likely to suffer.

Grading:

Your grade in this course will be figured by the following formula:

Three Major Essays:	50%
One Page Papers:	30%
Discussion Boards:	20%

Your final exam will be a revision of a major paper and is figured into your “Three Major Essays” grade.

All grades will be kept in “real time” on BlackBoard.

Discussion Board Expectations/Grading Scale

Discussion board postings are graded on a numerical scale from “100” to “zero.”

- Simply meeting the criteria for the assignment does not earn you an A (if you meet the basic criteria without excelling, that’s average work, or a 75).
- If you meet the criteria for the assignment and do average work, you will earn a C (a 75).
- Grades between 80 and 100 are reserved for those students who are going above and beyond basic course expectations and who are thus engaging in above average work.
- Although you are allowed to revise essays in this class, you are not allowed to revise discussion board posts. I highly recommend that you write your posts in Microsoft Word (or equivalent word processing software) first, check your spelling and grammar, and then copy and paste your posts into the discussion boards. Your discussion board posts are graded on both content and grammar.

Essay Expectations/Grading Scale

You will be required to write 6 essays for this course. The four primary essays will each be approximately 3-4 pages in length. The four one page papers may not exceed one page. You will also be graded on your discussion board posts, quizzes, and paper proposals.

You are encouraged to rewrite any essay you would like to rewrite – any paper submitted on time has “infinite revisions.”

A and B papers are well above average in critical analysis, style, and mechanics. C papers are average, with grammar, organizational, or developmental problems that distract from the easy flow of the essay. D or F papers are those that do not meet the assignment, contain numerous errors, are not logically organized or lack substantial development. As we learn the specific skills of English 101, I’ll explain these grading policies in the context of each of those skills.

Late Work

Late work loses 5 points per day late (including holidays and weekends).

LATE WORK WILL RECEIVE A GRADE, BUT IT WILL NOT RECEIVE INSTRUCTOR FEEDBACK. This means that late work can not be revised. I do not expedite the grading of late work – it is your responsibility to submit your work on time.

Online Rules:

1. Obviously, no personal attacks are permitted. If there is a difference of opinion, mature discussion and conflict resolution are expected.
2. If I have to delete your post from a discussion board (for personal attacks, inappropriate language or action, etc.), you will receive an automatic zero for that week's discussion.
3. You are expected to login several times over the course of the week (to listen to .mp3 files, to download PowerPoints and other files, to create discussion posts and upload assignments, etc.). Because we are completing the semester in 1/3 the time, you should expect to spend 20-30 hours per week on this course.

Plagiarism and Academic Honesty:

The following is the college's statement on Plagiarism and Academic Honesty:

“At Middlesex Community College, we expect the highest standards of academic honesty. Academic misconduct is prohibited in accordance with the Board of Regents Policy on Student Conduct, Part D, Section 1. This policy prohibits plagiarism, defined as the submission of work by a student for academic credit as one's own work of authorship which contains work of another author without appropriate attribution, and all forms of cheating including but not limited to: (i) use of any unauthorized assistance in taking quizzes, tests or examinations; (ii) use of sources beyond those authorized by the instructor in writing papers, preparing reports, solving problems or carrying out other assignments; (iii) the acquisition, without permission, of tests or other academic material belonging to a member of the University faculty or staff; and (iv) engaging in any other behavior specifically prohibited by a faculty member in the course syllabus.”

You must use proper citation. Presenting another person's ideas or language as your own will result in an F for that paper without the right to revise it. Having others complete your work for you will result in an F on the affected assignments. Either infraction may also result in an F for the course and escalation to the office of the Dean.

Very often students plagiarize because of deadline stress or confusion regarding an assignment. It's my job to help you if you're confused. It's your job to ask for help and to not plagiarize.

In Order to Succeed in This Course

Please keep in mind that this course is rigorous. It requires you to manage your time well, employ good study skills and keep ahead of assignments. It can also be extremely interesting and enjoyable as it encourages you to explore your thoughts and to learn how to express those thoughts with greater clarity and focus.

Remember – I'm willing to work as hard as you're willing to work. Want to revise your work? Good! I'll read it again. Want help narrowing an idea for a paper? Good! That's my job. Let's work together to help you realize your potential as a reader, writer and thinker.

Plan of Study, English 101, McNulty

Please note I may change this schedule at any time to match the pace and needs of the class. On given weeks it may be expected that you listen to an audio file to supplement or clarify the work already assigned.
