Course description:

An elementary study of the macroeconomic system. A study of the interrelationships among the household, business and government sectors. An elementary study of output, income, employment, consumption, inflation, fluctuations in the economy, and fiscal and monetary policy.

The objective of this course is to gain an understanding of how the larger economic system functions utilizing basic principles of economic reasoning and tools of analysis, and to consider the complexities facing economic and financial policymaking. Beginning with the circular flow model the course will define and measure concepts of national income and expenditure, saving and investment, production and growth of the economy; the economic implications of inflation and the issue of unemployment will be examined. This will be followed by a more detailed exploration of the role of money and the financial system within a more articulated model of aggregate supply and demand. Factors underlying economic fluctuations, including the 2008-09 recession, will be investigated. The course will then survey the tools of monetary and fiscal policy and engage the debate over their appropriate and effective use.

Teaching Methods – Text book with on-line ancillaries; chapter overviews; practice questions, quizzes, tests, discussion board participation; email contact with instructor.

Evaluation Tools:

- Session quizzes based on textbook chapter assignments—35% of grade;
- 2 “short-answer” tests; see schedule for dates—35% of grade.
- On-line discussion participation covering questions/topics posed by the instructor based on material from the textbook, supplemental articles or current economic issues drawn from the Wall Street Journal, NY Times, et.al. Specific assignments will be detailed by the instructor—30% of grade.

Course Structure:

The structure of an online course is more rigid than that of a classroom course. It is essential that due dates and time limits be observed. Once expired, you will not be able to complete an assignment and a grade can not be assigned. There will be no substitute or additional credit assignments offered at the conclusion of the course.

Additionally, this Winter Session course is highly concentrated into an 18-day period. Daily attention (estimated 2-4 hours/day) to required reading, quizzes and discussion assignments is therefore necessary.

IMPORTANT! Quizzes and tests (not practice questions) have a set time limit. Once you begin a test or quiz, you must finish it within the time limit shown. After that time expires, you will not be able to continue.
