COURSE DESCRIPTION: An examination of the evolution of contemporary relationships such as dating, cohabitation and marriage. The implications of changes in relationships and their effect on the individual, family and society will be analyzed.

SCOPE OF THE COURSE:

This course will introduce the student to sociological analyses of the family as an intimate, resilient, and dynamic social institution. Students will examine the influences of various social forces on the family, including race and ethnicity, legislation, technology, medicine, and other engines of social change. The course will explore empirical findings and theoretical perspectives pertaining to such aspects of the family as courtship, roles, marriage, and family interaction.

The course will facilitate the development of students' critical thinking skills by situating the modern family in its historical context, examining differences and similarities between the role of family in various cultural and ethnic groups, assessing the impact of changes in the family on children and adults, and by reflecting upon the future of the family and the debate over the ideal type of family structure.

COURSE OBJECTIVES & LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Upon completion of the course, the student will be able to:

1. Understand and use sociological theory in studying intra- and inter-family roles and relationships.
2. Recognize some of the key historical changes, and their precipitators, which have had significant consequences for the family.
3. Identify diverse family forms and family interaction in the U.S.
4. Assess the reification of "family values," and the importance of constructive values in resilient families.
5. Identify problems and frame research questions relating to families and their experiences.
6. Appreciate the process of theory-building and theoretical frameworks used by the social sciences by employing the three major theoretical frameworks in sociology, structural functionalism, conflict theory, and symbolic interactionism, to gain insight into and to engage in critical thinking about the family.
7. To understand differences among and commonalities across families and their experience and transitions in roles and responsibilities of family members as they face various life events (e.g. college graduation, marriage, parenthood, retirement, catastrophic illness).

8. Understand how changes in the economy, legislation and technology may affect the family.
9. Identify and explain gender division of labor in different cultures.
10. Analyze family problems of violence and abuse.
11. Explore the future of the family.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS:

1. Assigned readings must be completed on time, as they will be the bases for class discussion.
2. Two exams will be given and must be completed by their assigned dates.
3. Regular and conscientious participation in class Discussions. Students should follow the Grading Rubric available in Course Content.

Course Requirements and Evaluation Methods

Weekly discussions (15 discussion assignments; 10 points each): = 150 points.

Exams (2 exams; 75 points each) 150 points

TOTAL 300 points

Weekly Discussions

Every week, you will be asked by the instructor to answer questions relating to assigned chapter on the week discussion board. You also need to respond to at least TWO messages other students posted. A weekly discussion assignment is worth 10 points.

The initial message responding to the instructor's questions is due midnight, Saturday, of each week. The response to at least two classmates is due midnight, Sunday, of each week. The only exception to these due dates is your last Discussion assignment, which will be due on Wednesday, December 4. You will be graded on how completely you answer the assigned discussion questions and by the quality of your response to other students' postings. Refer to the grading rubric for a specific explication of how points are assigned to discussion responses. Your use of critical thinking skills, conducting the research you conduct on the discussion board questions, and your application of the readings will be assessed. You will have one week to conduct research and post. The discussion board is available Monday 12:01 am to the following Sunday Midnight EST. No late postings will be accepted.

The Exams will draw from material in the text and readings, films, discussions, and instructor comments for the calendar period covered by the exam. Each exam will be available beginning at midnight (end of day) the Sunday before the exam is due:

- Exam 1 will be available Sunday, October 6 at 11:59 p.m. until Sunday, October 13 at 11:59 p.m. Note that there also is a Discussion assignment due this week.
- Exam 2 will be available Sunday, December 1 at 11:59 p.m. through Sunday, December 8 at 11:59 p.m.
